REPORT

OF THE

SCHOOL COMMITTEE.

The School Committee, as required by law, submit the following Report of the condition of the Schools.

The year has been a memorable one in the history of our schools from the fact that six schools have been transferred to new buildings erected for that purpose. The new building at the corner of High and Pleasant Streets, accommodating the High School, what was formerly the West Street Grammar School, and three District Schools, and the new building for the Grammar School in West Fitchburg, have been occupied during the winter term; and the schools thus provided for, have shown a very decided improvement in all the characteristics of good schools. Greater zeal for study, greater regard for punctuality, and an improved deportment have resulted from the improved school houses. We congratulate the town that for the first time in many years we have reached a point at which we are free from any pressing necessity for new school houses. We do not see that any large expenditure for this purpose can be required of the town for some years to come.

The same schools have been maintained, and in the same localities as heretofore, with the following exceptions: In District No. 3, (South Fitchburg,) the number of scholars seemed too small to warrant the continuance of two schools throughout the year, and therefore all were brought into one school during the first and second terms. During the third term, there were, as formerly, two schools, but even then the attendance was very small in both.

At the opening of the first term, the three schools on South Street were so overrun with scholars, that we found it necessary to call upon the Selectmen to furnish the vacant room in that building for the establishment of an additional Primary School. Only a few weeks later a private school was opened in that vicinity, and drew off so large a number of children that three schools were found abundantly sufficient for those who remained. The new school was therefore discontinued after thirteeen weeks. Our hope is that the children thus withdrawn will return to the Public Schools, and that all of the rooms in that school house will be needed.

The number of scholars attending the Intermediate and Primary Schools in the old Academy building was too great for two schools. Therefore in entering the new building, they were disposed in three schools, and this enabled us somewhat to relieve those on West Street.

During the winter term a male teacher was employed in the Intermediate School on West Street, according to the suggestions of the last year's Report, and for the reasons there stated. We think that a slight change in this arrangement will be necessary another year. Many boys attend school in the winter only, and most of those are not prepared to join any of the classes in the Grammar Schools with advantage either to themselves or to the schools. can be put into a school kept expressly for their advantage, not only will they derive more profit than by joining classes for which they are not qualified, but the Grammar Schools can be kept respectably full during the year, instead of many seats being left vacant through the summer, that they may be occupied by such scholars in the winter. additional school ought not to displace an Intermediate School, but be separate, and allow all the others to go on as This may be done, by using for the Primary School, the small room in the West Street building during the winter.

It has been the wish of the Committee for several years to reduce the studies in the High and Grammar Schools to a complete system. We are happy to say that we have made more decided advances in this direction during the past year than ever before. The scholars in each Grammar School are arranged in four classes, and except in cases in which ill health or some other unavoidable cause prevents, those of each class pursue the same studies. A scholar of ordinary ability and diligence may therefore pass throgh one of the Grammar Schools in four years, and any scholar removing from one part of the town to another, will find in the Grammar School to which he is transferred a class equally advanced and pursuing the same studies, with the class which he left. A schedule accompanying this Report will show the studies pursued in the High School, and the terms during which the same branches are taught. adopting such a schedule, we furnish to every scholar who attends the High School a sufficient number of consecutive terms, an opportunity to pursue every study included in the course, and at the same time keep the number of classes each term within the necessary limits.

We think we are justified in saying that the schools, as a whole, have been fairly successful during the past year. There is a tendency with some of the teachers to bestow their attention too exclusively to the advanced studies, and allow the scholars to remain ignorant of some of the rudiments of learning. We think that many of our children, if transferred to some of the best public schools in the State, would be found deficient in Spelling, Penmanship and Reading. They would take an honorable rank in other studies, and the pupils of our Grammar Schools would give evidence of an unusually thorough and faithful discipline in Mental Arithmetic. Indeed, we doubt whether in this respect our Grammar Schools are surpassed by any other schools; certainly they are not by any with which we are acquainted. But we would suggest to the teachers that if by any diligence on their part the scholars can be better grounded in the rudiments of learning, the result will be of great practical value.

We proceed to speak of the several schools in detail, premising that the comments are to be regarded as expressing, in each case, so far as they go, the individual views and opinions of the member of the Committee who had the particular charge of the school for the year.

HIGH SCHOOL.

The attendance of scholars in the High School has been better than in any previous year, and we think there has been decided improvement in their deportment, and in the general tone of feeling among them. Scarcely anything has occurred to disturb the harmony of the school, and very little to call for the disapprobation of the teachers. is a prevailing disposition among the members of the school to render it a pleasant and attractive place of resort, and it has seemed to us to be really such. We have sometimes wished that the enthusiasm for study were a little warmer; but we cannot help bearing testimony to the general diligence of scholars and the uniform fidelity of the teachers. school opens this term with a larger number of scholars than ever before, 55 having been admitted as follows: 22 from the High Street Grammar School, 21 from the Day Street School, 10 from the West Grammar School, and two who had not been connected with any Grammar School in town.

GRAMMAR SCHOOLS.

HIGH STREET. We regard this school as second to no other in town. It has been under the same Principal nearly four years; and during that time has been steadily rising in its general character.

The various branches are taught with great thoroughness, and the happy faculty of the Principal in imparting information coincident with that contained in the text, gives zest and interest to the recitations, and stimulates thought and inquiry.

Where all the branches are taught so well, it may not be wise to single out any one for special commendation; but the pleasure we have felt in listening to the reading lessons—a branch of study sadly neglected in some of our schools—constrains us to say that in this department especially the fruit of careful and wise training was most hopefully apparent. We have been pleased also with the attention given to physical training. Since the removal of this school to High Street, an Assistant teacher has been employed. We are happy to be able to speak with unqualified commendation of the satisfactory manner in which she has performed her duties.

DAY STREET. It cannot be denied that this school has suffered greatly from frequent changes of Principals. No one of the gentlemen who has held this office during the last three years has been other than assiduous, and faithful, and all of them are able and successful teachers. The change, in three cases out of the four, was sought by the teachers rather than by the Committee. Frequent changes are, in themselves, unfavorable to the permanent prosperity of a school, especially when they are occasioned by difficulty in governing the scholars. But amidst these unfavorable changes, the classes have steadily advanced, and give evidence of good instruction on the part of the teachers, and faithful labor on the part of most of the scholars. We think that the difficulty of taking care of this school would be much diminished and its profitableness greatly increased, if parents were less ready to believe absurd reports respecting what transpires in the school-room, and were more willing to take for granted that the teachers are governed by good motives, and wish to be faithful, and just, and kind to their pupils.

While four successive Principals have had charge of this school, the Assistant Teacher has remained the same, and the value of the school to its members has depended greatly on her admirable qualifications for her work. We have no better teacher in town, of any grade, than Mrs. Lowe.

Mr. Lamb, so well known to our people as the Principal of this school from its origin till Nov. 1858, having sufficiently recoverd his health, has resumed his duties with the beginning of the current term. We make this announcement, regarding it as a sufficient guaranty for the future quietness and good order of the school.

It must be gratifying to those more immediately interested in this school to see it, at length, permanently established in a new and beautiful house, centrally located, admirably adapted to promote the health, comfort and convenience of the scholars, and furnishing many facilities for improvement not heretofore enjoyed by this school. Carter has remained in the school during the year and has accomplished for it all that his acknowledged previous good success promised for it. The scholars under his watchful guidance, have seemed to acquire a love for accuracy and thoroughness in their recitations, as well as for an acquaintance with natural objects external to the school-room, which it is pleasant to witness, and which must be profitable to them. The closing examination, which occupied more time, and was conducted in a manner more thorough and critical than any previous one, was entirely satisfactory to the Committee:

DISTRICT SCHOOLS.

DISTRICT No. 1.

West Street. Intermediate. The first and second terms of this school could hardly be called a success, though the scholarship and fidelity of the teacher were unquestioned.

As there are many large boys who attend this department in winter, it was thought best to employ a male teacher. We considered ourselves fortunate in securing the services of one of our former Grammar School teachers for the winter term, and although the school was very short—too short to give a new teacher a fair chance—we think it was a profitable one.

Primary. This school has been under the same experienced teacher for the two last years. We are happy to state that in consequence of the removal of the Grammar School to High Street, this Primary School has been delivered from the straitened and uncomfortable room in which it was previously kept, and has occupied during the last term the former Intermediate School room. The improvement in the order and general character of the school in this more convenient and comfortable room was very marked, furnishing fresh proof of the necessity of suitable accomodations if we would promote the true welfare of our schools.

High Street. Intermediate. The same experienced teacher has had charge of this school for two years past. We have been pleased with the attention given to Reading and Spelling in this school, and with the success that has crowned the efforts of the teacher in this direction, while other branches have not been neglected.

Secondary. This new department, made neccessary by an increase of pupils, has had only one short term. But under the faithful instruction of one who had already proved herself well qualified for her work, that term was successful.

Primary. This department has been favored with the same teacher through the year, and has proved an excellent school. The teacher shows a lively interest in her work, and good order and general improvement have crowned her faithful labors.

DAY STREET. Intermediate. This school prospered throughout the year, the first class being well qualified, at the close of the winter term, to enter the Grammar School.

Secondary. It is sufficient to say of the teacher, that she has the same wonderful tact for instructing, and guiding, and guarding, and training children that she has always shown. But little change can be desired in her school.

Primary. The teacher during the summer term was entirely successful, and was only prevented by ill health from remaining with the school. Her place was well supplied, however, and the teacher who followed showed a special adaptation to the care and teaching of little children.

South Street. Intermediate. Energy, earnestness and perseverance on the part of the teacher, and a commendable degree of application and diligence on the part of the pupils insured for this school a fair rank with the other schools of the same grade. It was a good school.

Secondary. A decided improvement upon last year's school. It appeared finely throughout the year.

Primary, A. A model Primary school teacher; almost a model Primary school.

Primary, B. A new school, established in consequence of the overflowing numbers in the other schools in the building at the commencement of the year, but which was continued only a part of each of two terms, the opening of the Catholic school reducing the numbers here so as to render its longer continuance unnecessary. It gave promise of being fairly successful.

East Street. The lady who taught during the summer was not eminently successful. Her lack of success was not owing to any lack of qualification as a scholar, or of desire to be faithful, but perhaps to the fact that she had never herself been before connected with a district school in any capacity, and was therefore not quite prepared to appreciate the demands of her situation. The remaining terms were decidedly profitable and pleasant.

DISTRICT No. 2. This school is increasing in numbers, and as there were more scholars much of the time during the year than there were accommodations for, it will be necessary either to enlarge the house, or remodel, and increase the number of seats.

With reference to the school, it is sufficient to say that Miss Perry—so long and so well known in the district—continued her faithful and devoted labors in it throughout the year.

DISTRICT No. 3. There is much less of scholarship in this school than there was a few years ago. The teachers labored diligently, and saw evidences of having accomplished something. More of life and zest would have improved the school.

DISTRICT No. 4. The first term of this school was regarded as a marked success. The school at the closing examination appeared finely. We regretted that the ill health of the teacher prevented her continuing the good work so well begun.

We think progress was made also during the second term, though under the disadvantage of a change of teachers.

The third term, under still another teacher, at the second visit of the Committee appeared admirably well. We were pleased with the studious and respectful deportment of the larger pupils. The closing examination occurring on the "cold Friday," was not attended by the Committee, but from what we saw of the school we presume it was a profitable one.

DISTRICT No. 5. All that unwearied patience, and kind effort, and faithful diligence on the part of the teacher could effect, was accomplished in this school. The manners of the children were much improved, their interest in study was quickened, and they closed the year with a unanimous regret that the school was so short.

District No. 6. This school has been taught through the year by one teacher and although it was her first school, it was a very marked and complete success; showing on the part of the teacher a love of her work, an aptness to teach, a tact for governing, and a special faculty for enlisting the interest of her pupils in their studies, and on the part of the scholars most praise worthy fidelity and improvement. At the closing examination the school was found to be most refreshingly awake and alive with interest.

DISTRICT No. 7. The first term was not a profitable one. The teacher, although well qualified for the situation in most respects, and although she labored untiringly, and exerted herself beyond her strength to achieve success, failed to secure that obedience and good order in the school room, which are important requisites of a truly good school.

The remaining terms were more nearly successful; constant improvement was noticeable, and the lost ground was more than regained, while a good degree of salutary instruction was imparted.

DISTRICT No. 8. The same kind and gentle influence by which so much of good was accomplished for this school last year, has been exercised here by the same affectionate, faithful and successful teacher during the present year; and although the terms have been interrupted by illness of both teacher and scholars, yet, in the aggregate, as much and as valuable instruction has been imparted and received as could reasonably have been expected under more favorable circumstances.

District No. 9. This school has been under the care of one teacher through the year. We think improvement was made, though the small number in attendance rendered it very difficult to awaken much enthusiasm in study. Still there are studious pupils in this school, and some of the recitations gave evidence of faithful application.

DISTRICT No. 10. This school during the first term was under the care of a faithful and competent teacher. It was tolerably successful, though in order, studiousness, and a respectful deportment, there was room for improvement.

During the second term, under a new teacher, the want of both self-respect and respect for the teacher was still more apparent in some of the larger pupils, who seemed unable to appreciate a kindly and gentle discipline. This was a matter of deep regret to the Committee, as the teacher brought to her work a sincere and hearty devotion to the welfare of the school.

The third term was under the charge of one of larger experience, and although the term was short, a marked improvement was effected in the general deportment of the school.

District No. 11. During the first term, we were somewhat disappointed, for we had expected of the teacher, (a stranger, but highly recommended,) unusual success. The lady who taught during the remaining terms, adds to natural qualifications for the work considerable experience. We were satisfied beyond our expectations.

DISTRICT No. 12. The teacher of the first term manifested an ability to govern as well as to instruct, which enabled her to leave the school, when, at the close of the term, she was transferred to the Day Street Intermediate, in a much better condition, in many respects, than that in which she found it.

The discipline exercised by her successor was mild and gentle but efficient, until resisted by the larger boys of the winter term; boys who ought to have been in a Grammar school under the charge of a male teacher. Her methods of teaching were admirable, and the success of the fall term almost perfect, but during the winter term the school experienced considerable difficulty from disorderly pupils, and as the course pursued by several parents and others residing in the district, was discouraging to the teacher and calculated to lessen her influence, diminish the number of the scholars and impair the usefulness of the school, she resigned her charge before the expiration of the proposed term. Her resignation was accepted by the Committee, and the school discontinued.

In the last year's Report, certain scholars, twenty-nine in number, were named, who had attended school throughout the year, without having been once absent or tardy. are glad to be able to state that the number of such, for the past year, has been slightly increased. It includes, as will be seen, ten of those who were in the number of the previous year, and three who have now completed the third year of perfect attendance. As it requires no small amount of vigilance, care and self-denial, to go through with a whole year without failing in a single instance, we feel warranted in making this public recognition of the class of scholars have thus distinguished themselves; -albeit, not unmindful that there may be other scholars, equally meritorious, who through simple misfortune, and from no fault of their own, failed to secure a perfectly clean record for the whole year.

We subjoin a list of scholars who appear, from the School Registers, to have attended during the whole term time of the year, without having been once absent or tardy,—indicating by italics those who have gone through the two years, and by SMALL CAPITALS those who have gone through three years, in like manner.

Appraised value of property, March 31, 1861,	12255	29
		13069	38
Total expenses of Pauper Establishment		1450	01

In the above item of $1450 01, is included the depreciation of property, thus: During the year there has been expended $650 79 for repairs and alterations, while the increase in the appraised valuation of the property is but $287 95, leaving a nett depreciation of $362 84. Subtract this from $1450 01, and we have $1087 17 as the nett expenses at Alms House aside from repairs. For detailed account of expenses and receipts, see Report of Overseers of the Poor.

It should be borne in mind that although the town has nominally a surplus, as here shown, of assets over liabilities amounting to $37,934 47, the debt being $58,240 09, while the property owned by the town is appraised at $96,174 56—and although the surplus has been increased during the year, as shown above, by a nett gain of $4,371 35, that is, while we have increased the debt $11,706 62 we have at the same time swelled the assets $16,077 97—still but a very small portion of these assets is in any sense available for the payment of our debt, which has now reached the very respectable sum of $58,240 09. We commend these figures to the careful attention of our tax payers, suggesting that whenever a vote is to be taken involving an expenditure of money, this book should be held in the left hand, open at this page.

All of which is respectfully submitted,

SECOND ANNUAL REPORT

OF THE

TRUSTEES OF THE PUBLIC LIBRARY.

The whole number of Books in our Library one year since, was 3731; there had been lost during the four months in which it had been open, three volumes. There have been added during the last year, by purchase and donation 729 volumes, making the whole number at this time 4460.

The following donations have been made, viz:

During the year there have been delivered 29045 books to 1938 takers. Charged and not returned, supposed to be obtainable, ten volumes; missing, probably lost, thirteen volumes.

Thus it is seen that the expenses of maintaining the Library, that is, of administering and keeping it in repair, amount to $487,80 for the year, leaving for its increase the sum of J. W. Mansur, R. R. fare three times to Boston,	503		991	72

A small sum is yet due for fines.

In the third annual report of the Trustees of the New Bedford Public Library, which consisted at that time of "about eight thousand volumes," it is stated as an encouraging fact, that at the time of "a recent examination of the Library, but sixty volumes were missing from the shelves." "The number of books taken from the Library during the year was twenty-one thousand and forty-one."—The facts in regard to our own Library are certainly more encouraging. With twenty-nine thousand and forty-five books taken, our number missing is not one-third so many as theirs.

The problem whether a Library could be made free to the public, and kept without very essential loss, it would seem, is now solved. A loss of thirteen books in a circulation of 29,045, cannot be considered very alarming. Even this loss, we trust, will be less in future years.

Our confidence in the wisdom of the principles upon which this institution is founded is undiminished.

The Public Library has now become an institution of the town. The small pecuniary outlay, contemplated by the legislature, is necessary to sustain it in a condition creditable to the town of Fitchburg. The board of trustees hope that sum will be cheerfully raised, believing that no appropriation to the same amount will conduce more to the general welfare of the town.

T. R. BOUTELLE, Chairman of Trustees. Fitchburg, April 5, 1861.
